DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Goto et al. (2003/0082936 A1) in view of VanDeusen (5,144,098).

With respect to claim 1, Goto et al. discloses a device for use in connection a semiconductor device under test (DUT) having a plurality of leads to electronic test equipment, an interconnect assembly comprising a) a cable (114) including a plurality of wires with at least one wire (Connect to 102) for sensing a signal from a DUT, at least one wire (Connect to 104) for a forcing signal to the DUT, and at least one wire (Connect to 106) for a guarding signal driven by the same electrical potential as the forcing signal, b) a male connector (107) including the plurality of wires, an outer metal coating surrounding the plurality of wires (Conductive wires are metal), and an insulating coating around the outer metal coating (Typical to almost every cable because if it is not insulated, the conductors become short circuit), and c) a receptacle connector for receiving the male connector and plurality of wires with corresponding contacts (Figure 2).

In the alternative with respect to the 35 U.S.C 103(a), Goto et al. does not explicitly disclose outer metal coating and an insulating coating.

VanDeusen discloses electrical cable and explicitly discloses metal coating (5) and insulating coating around metal coating (5) (Figure 1).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the metal coating and insulating as taught by VanDeusen into the system of Goto et al. because the metal coating and the insulating is the principle of the cable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 2-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goto et al. (2003/0082936 A1) in view of Fang et al. (2005/0148218 A1).

With respect to claim 2, Goto et al. discloses every subject matter recited in the claim except for the receptacle connector includes a metal housing.

Fang et al. discloses electrical connector and further discloses the receptacle connector includes a metal housing (Figure 1) to eliminate the noise from connection (Fang et al. para. 05-08).

Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate the receptacle connector including a metal housing as taught by Fang et al. into the system of Goto et al. because the receptacle connector including a metal housing is desirable to eliminate the noise from connection.

With respect to claim 3, Goto et al. discloses the cable and the male connector include a plurality of wires for a forcing signal (Figure 1A).

With respect to claims 4, 5, Goto et al. discloses the receptacle connector is mountable on a printed circuit board (Figure 2) of a test fixture with printed wiring of the printed circuit board connecting contacts of the receptacle connector to a socket of the test fixture.
